THE CAPTURE OF PUBBLA. - We can no longer doubt that the Mexicans have been defeated in consequence of the failure of supplies and ammunition. The circumstances attending the surrender of Puebla are, however, somewhat different from the previous French account. It appears that on the 17th ult. Gen. Forey sent a flag of truce to the Mexican commander, Ortega, offering to allow the officers and soldiers to march out-the officers with their side arms-provided they would give their parole not to serve against the French again. This was declined by Gen. Ortega, who, in a starving condition, spiked his cannon, burnt his gun-carriages, destroyed the aims of the infantry, and surrendered his army prisoners of war. Several of the Mexican officers, preferring death to a surrender, committed suicide by shooting themselves. Such is the tragic sequel to the remarkable and gallant defence of Puebla. It appears, moreover, that the fall of Puebla has had the effect to arouse the feelings of the Mexicans against the French to the highest degree of exasperation. All Frenchmen in the city of Mexico have been ordered to leave within eight days. The Mexicans are determined to defend the approaches to their capital to the last.

Though the French have captured Puebla, t is evident, as the New York Times says, that the great struggle has but just commenced. As the French proceed toward the capital they move further from their base of supplies, and the advantages of the defenders of the country will increase as those of the invaders diminish. The city of Mexico is capable of much greater defence than Puebla. A year has been spent in preparations for the assault. The three main causeways by which the city is approached, can be flooded, if need be, the rows of beautiful trees which surround the city have been cut down and turned into barricades, and every means which engineering skill could devise have been brought to bear to render the capital of the Mexican Republic impregnable. Comonfort and his army are still at large, and though it is stated that Ortega blames the ex-President for not cutting his way through and relieving him, he will, in all probability, yet play an important part in the defence of Mexico. Another Mexguerilla bands do not seriously retard the movement of the French toward the capital, movement of the French toward the capital, defence on the part of the Mexicans.

tucky and "the Great Uprising," by Sallie J. Hancock, of Kentucky, has just been issued from the press of Cutter, Tower, & Co., New York. It is the first effort of our townswoman in the field of fiction and gives promise of future distinguished excellence. The characters are drawn with remarkable force and skill, the plot is of deep and absorbing interest, and the dialogue exhibits an intimate acquaintance with English literature and a delicate critical appreciation of many of the great writers of the past and present generations. The intellectual merits of Etna Vandemir will commend it to the appreciation of readers of intelligence while the casual seeker after excitement will find in its story of heart trials much to amuse, interest, and excite. The garnered wealth of a well-stored mind, and habits of careful observation of character and the springs of human action, give unusual interest to this volume. It contains no sickly sentimentality, but its thoughts are all pure, elevated, and refined. Mrs. Hancock has an artistic eye for the beauties of nature and her word paintings and descriptions of the lovely suburban scenery of Louisville are graphic in the extreme, while her limning of the personal traits of the actors in her drama of life exhibits a knowledge of the human heart, its impulses and workings, which is very unusual in one of her sex. To the domestic story of her romance, she has most skilfully linked an episode of our civil war by which she is enabled to give a charming local interest to her work. The 15th Kentucky, "the orphan regiment," the trip of the steamer E. H. Fairchild on her errand of mercy after the terrible battle of Shiloh, and other well remembered incidents, are introduced, and give a vraisemblance to the fiction, causing it to read as if it were a narrative of the war or a biography of its brave soldiers. The neutrality of our State is patriotically defended and proudly explained, while the horrors of the fratricidal strife, the terrible sundering of friendly ties, the breaking hearts caused by the divisions of families are painfully depicted. Facts and fiction are so skilfully interspersed that it becomes difficult to realize that Etna, Howard Lorraine, the Hastings, Emerson, Mabel Winchester, Mellie, and the other ideal personages are not as real characters as Colonel Curran Pope, or that the pictured home at "Wilton" has not a geographic locality as well as Shiloh, or the "Headquarters of the Cumberland." If the design of this work had been simply of a political character, through which the principles of secession might be discussed, and arguments arrayed on both sides of the fearful questions involved in "Southern Rights," Mrs. Hancock would have achieved a great triumph in her mode of handling it. But she is also imbued with a deep æsthetic appreciation of the beautiful in life and character; she has studied the mysteries of that great problem "woman's beart," and writes with wonderful vigor and intensity. "Etna Vandemir" would be a success were it the work of an old and experienced author, but when we consider that it is the first outgush from a heretofore sealed fountain of intellect and imagination, the triumph is as marked as it is complete. This romance is thoroughly a narrative of Kentucky. though its scenes are shifted to different parts of our own country and outremer. It should be extensively read by Kentuckians, not merely for its instrinsic merits, but for the sake of stimulating the ambition of the author, and encouraging her to other attempts in the field of charming fiction. We can most heartily commend "Etna

Vandemir' to the reading world; its interest is intense, its moral object pure and elevated, and its literary beauties are studded as brightly and thickly as the stars in the clear expanse of a cloudless winter sky. The work

[Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] CAMP SHACKELFORD, HOPKINSVILLE, KY., } Having furnished you a letter from this place some time ago, which had reference altogether to general matters, I proceed now quite differently to furnish you one that shall be somewhat specific.

Deeming it necessary to come to a good political understanding, I would senter tiously remark (by way of introduction), that I am no abolitionist. Oh! but you are, says the Southern man, or else you wouldn't be in the Federal army. Not so! Says the abolitionist aside: You are but truckling to our designs, in I says that the lie. Says that they Illing. sir I give that the lie. Says the true Union man: You are for that which is grand, glorious, and beautiful. You are not for blighting the hopes of the down-trodden and oppressed of the earth, but for preserving the ark of future safety and refuge to unborn millions. You are, in fact, for restoring the lustre to the most brilliant gem that ever adorned the boom of the earth. Remember that Greece, som of the earth. Remember that Greece, Rome, Venice, and Genoa failed. If this, the fifth trial, fails, man must shudder, and sink into political darkness, without a hope to illumine his soul, or energize his faculties ever again. Otherwise, tottering thrones will crash at your feet, lineal distinctions will be cut short and all societies large and small will short, and all societies, large and small, will

The country is not prepared for abolition, unless you would perpetrate an injustice to a class or section, the evil consequences of which would live for centuries afterward. Suppose we look into these abolition measures a moment. First, free the negroes South, letting them remain there, what would the consequences be? Years of tragedy and bloodshed. The negro and white man arrayed in deadly hostility to each other, with a ruthless soldiery to hold them in check—and they for the most part on the side of the ne-gro, or in all probability negro soldiers—thus rendering the contest about equal, and of almost endless duration, too horrible to relate with tongue or chronicle with pen. Is this just? Is it at all right? Will this benefit the nation? Will it restore the Union, with its former faith and unity, the object of the nation's deepest solicitude? The answer is

Do they want him in the northwest? Have they any use for him there? No; for they have seen since he cannot be an equal member of society, a ligament, he must be a tax burden or nu sance; consequently they on't want him.

How, and by whom, is he to be received in the New England States? By the rich class, chiefly the manufacturers, who have the capital n hand, and whose circumstances can hardly be changed, if at all, by any alterations of society. These are the men that would steal the negro, ler to introduce him there, in direct competition with the poor man, destroying the bal-ance of laber against capital that there exists (which even now is hardly fair for the laborer) and as firmly seating the property holder in his possession as the laws of entail would. This is a deadlier aim at the institutions and interests of freedom than the South has ever made, no matter how high or bold her stroke. people around-and could not but result in the oppression of that class of people (the laboring class), a nation's pride at all times, its security in times of danger, its bone and sinew, its

These are the men, too, that came to the support of that abomination abolitionism, when but a fanatical idea, and regarded by the nation as a mere humbug, which proved to be one of the greatest curses that ever visited any nation during the history of the world, simply, by those men giving it the support of their indusers and received. port of their influence and means as a mere The question arises whether this abnormal condition would benefit the negro or not? I am of opinion it wouldn't. For when he became the immediate object of their pity and charity, they both would take to flight. How else is he to go there but as an alto-gether dependent being. If he ever does he'll discover that he had better trusted himself elsewhere than in the hands of those lynxeyed monsters of mammon. If there is a dollar to be made anywhere they will see it. They have the whole United States as a speculating sustenance or comfort to civilized man. If one of these should ever get to Heaven, he will do it in a speculating way, aiming to cheat God out of his salvation; and on entering the streets of the New Jerusalem he will be the streets of the New Jerusalem he will be the streets of the New Jerusalem he will be the way. Captain Heady spoke at Pit-

West. These constitute a large class of them, and are men that know something more of the negro than their fanatical brothers, and don't care about assimilating with them. They propose to send them West and drive them before the march of civilization until they are engulphed in oblivion or driven cause letter-writers in the Journal had so into the Pacific Ocean in company with their misrepresented his position as to forbid they must either he lovel or act so. The number of the part of t prived of her slaves, she would dismiss that enervating influence that slavery fosters and is at enmity with the spirit of public im rovements. These egotists would have the cuth to shake off the incubus of slavery in society that they are pleased to dictate, regardless of climate, epidemics, and the nature of the soil, with its productions. The negro was very necessary at first, in the clearing up of those fenny, boggy forests with a sultry climate full of epidemics. rendered so by a never-failing miasma, very dangerous to the health or constitution of any white man that would brave the terrors of such a climate in order to bring forth those products that have been of such great use to society in general. Would it be treating mankind with that consideration that is exis totally necessary to the bringing forth of those productions that have given employment to such a large class of men, especially the poor of England, and furnish comforts that would be hard to do without to the whole

Would it be right either to emasculate the South in this manner, when we wish and can restore her to the Union unimpaired, with the same brotherly love we had before? When, from a non-cultivation of the soil. Oh! but you say the Irish and Dutch can come in their place. The hardy son of Erin and the fair German would wilt away in such a climate, or the epidemics at times would sweep them from the face of the earth as fire does the dry and parched grass of the wild prairies. It is true they might cultivate the soil with some success, but not with the same the negro does. Greater dangers, too, would attend the white laborer than those I have immediately mentioned, should he go there as a substitute for the black. Furthermore, having deprived the South of her slaves through means of violence and injustice yet unknown to us, how much greater would be the resistance made by her, maddened to desfighting, not only for her rights, but her ex-

Consequently a great deal more of blood and treasure would be expended than was necessary, all to purposes that would prove rather a curse than a blessing, when we know the Southern masses have been deceived, and are now so entangled in the meshes of a rebel despotism that they could not, if they would, come back into the Union, and we only have to restore her to the Union with every right she formerly possessed to make her as true and as faithful as ever, not forgetting to punish these traitor leaders as their rimes deserve: thus restoring right by doing right, not nurturing wrong by our own acts

And again, would such a measure as is proposed be treating the negro with humanity and the consideration he deserves? But such will not be the case. I only argue to show the radicals their error. If the negro is freed, the South either has to hold him, or the North re-ceive him. There may be classed with these those that are for transportation beyond the borders of the United States. This plan has been scouted long ago for the utter want of common sense. In fact it never entered the rain of the real abolitionist.

The fanatical class are the last that I am to speak of. I find, too, that they are the most difficult to mention, from the fact they are the least worthy of it. You will find a great many of these classed with those I have formarly mentioned, but the most father than the state of the nerly mentioned: but the most of them are ead and shoulders above their brother abol monomania, and would override all obstacles of principle, truth, honor, and justice, in order to accomplish their designs. They would di-worst they could do, and in short, without enumeration, they would do anything. Now what is the use of all this? Why check the growth of this Republic in the prime and lustre of its youth? Why look is for sale at our principal bookstores, and we hope soon to hear that a second edition has been called for, when Mrs. Hancock's publishers will take care that some inexcusable typographical errors in the present edition are corrected.

A young lady being asked by a boring politician which party she was in favor of, replied that she preferred a wedding party.

Grant that there are things that do not suit you. Oh! but they are serious ones, you say; mainly, the pretence of a free government here, not with slavery in it as a consequence; but distinctly classed, spoken of as slaves, and treated as such.

I will not argue to the extent sufficient to show that there is a species of slavery existing with you, that all men acknowledge (because unavoidable), that is constantly growing more oppressive, while that of the negro is ameliorating.

This is a curious assertion, but the reason is plain. The taking of the negro from the jungles of his native Africa, where he was of no manner of use, and placing him here as a substitute for the white laborer, was outside of anything the world had ever seen. grafting process, without a precedent, aston-ished all men, and our colonial fathers, not knowing how to receive the negro but as a slave, being disgusted also with his ignorance and loathsome appearance, met by deputation and offered a protest against the shipping of any more to the American shores, which was of no avail. This new phase in society caused men of learning and curiosity to watch its progress and, if possible, foresee events as a termination. Not having statistics to show the advantage of slave labor, they op-posed it; not taking into consideration the uselessness of the negro, not only to himself and race but to the whole human race, remaining as he was in idleness. Placed here, he was a decided advantage to himself and recople and also to civilized society, by being made useful; when, as he was, he would hardly bestir himself to escape the hungry jaws of the wild beasts that infested his native

Neither did they consider the disadvan-tages of a climate fruitful with diseases, under which a white man would have to labor. The negro being used to it for ages could stand it

But let this be as it may, it went from individuals to nations. It was then declared not only to be subversive of the higher law of right and freedom, but was opposed by a law of nations. It is this outside pressure, that is becoming mightier every day, that has a tendengradually to ameliorate the condition of In case that things are left to continue in their channel, and the natural law that is at work not foolishly put aside by our own people, the institution of negro slavery will pass away as quietly as it was introduced. Otherwise, you know what will be the re-ilt—a serious check to our national growth, and perhaps an end to the republic forever. When we come to look at this institution in when we come to look at this institution in this light, we cannot but regard it as a new embellishment that adds increased lustre to the great national purpose for which our government was created. The finger of God seems to have been in this work.

So let us join in the restoration of the Union with its former faith and unity. That we can, that we must, accomplish. For sectional policy will create division in the North (which is becoming more evident every day) until the coming more evident every day) until the becoming more evident every day) until the differences will become so great that a unity of purpose will be lost sight of altogether. As a consequence, nothing can be effected. Our affairs will become more involved every day. Finally, some European power or powers will introduce themselves in conjunction with the South, and settle our difficulty for us. How? By our Union being broken into fragments, and inevitably thrown into the open road that led to the end of Grecian history. Suppose now we leave God to do with tory. Suppose now we leave God to do with this institution. As he in his infinite providence introduced it, he will dispose of it as he pleases. And we will join hands in good faith, and raise one shout—the Union, we'll have it as it was—now, once, and forever. FARISINIUS.

TAYLOR COUNTY, KY., June 9, 1863. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

GENTLEMEN: The people of this portion of the State are becoming alive to the importance of the approaching election for State officers and Congressmen; they realize the vast importance of electing none but undoubted and unflinching Union men to fill the various of-fices, both State and National, and rest assured they will see to it that none other are elected. The State ticket, headed by the gallant Gen. Bramlette, will be unanimously and enthusiastically supported by all Union men, and the nomination of the Hon. A. Harding for Congress by the Lebanon convention will be ratified by the people at the August elecand telling majority.

By the way, Captain Heady spoke at Pit-

have a constant guard, in order to keep him from pocketing those pavement stones which are said to be made of gold. Yankee wit seems to smell of money.

By the way, Captain Heady spoke at 1.1. In this county, last Baturday, to the few secession sympathizers of the election precinct and a few Union men who were present through curiosity to hear what the Captain through curiosity to hear what the Captain are said to be made of gold. decision of the Lebanon Convention," which he subsequently repudiated, because, he said npeer for unfittedness in society, the Indian.

all hope of a nomination by that body, which, in the estimation of the gallant eaucus or junto, since he announced that his "name would not go before the Leb-anon Convention." This is a novel as well as a "History" and the rest of 'em fall to writing not Captain Heady speak and write hims pondents, "Truth" and "History," write be-fore as well as after the Convention, repelling the Convention? But the truth is, the Cap by the Union men of the district, not for the on the war question was no better than sub-mission to the rebellion, to which the district is unalterably opposed.

Captain Heady took occasion to abuse in coarse terms the Lebanon Convention, stigmatizing several of the delegates, and persisting in the stale and exploded charge, that it was composed of only thirty or forty delegates who were old Know Nothings, broken down politicians, &c. The truth is, and the Captain knows it, that there was more delegates than thirty, or forty either, in the convention from Taylor county alone, and I undertake to say that two thirds of them are old line Democrats, that there was at least two hundred delegates in all, and that the conven-tion did represent the district fairly by nomi-nating Mr. Harding, and that they would have wofully misrepresented it by nominating Capt. Heady.

The Captain is particularly muddy and misty on the war question—on the question of supplies of men and money to prosecute the war. At Campbellsville a few weeks ago he was understood to say that he was opposed to voting another man or another dollar unless the President would conform to his plan would "wrestle" with the abolitionists, and that if they didn't fall he would, or that in effect. In answer to a question he was forced to acknowledge that he did not agree with the Louisgard to his quondam friend, who has so uncer-emoniously cut loose from him on the main question, and what will the Captain do for an organ? The fact is, in the latter gentleman's explorations around the District, he has discovered that the doctrine of cutting off the change of position on this subject, a change, however, that will do him no good, for in Mr. Harding the people have a thorough and reliable Unionist from the beginning, and one who will exert his great talents in opposing secession and abolitionism alike, and who they will elect by a large majority over all opposition. seems to have lost his temper and equilibrium altogether. He berated the Journal, the let-ter-writers, the Convention, everything; thinks there is a conspiracy to "write him down" by misrepresentation and abuse, and will have none of it. His whole speech was a violent and unnecessary outburst of passionate abuse on his own part, however, of all who did not agree with him in his notions about the policy of the war. At heart there is no better or more generous man than Capt. Heady, and as far as he is concerned, but inevitable mortification and defeat. FRANKLIN, TENN., June 10, 1863.

it is to be regretted that he has thrown him-self into a position that can result in nothing,

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: In reading your daily issue of the 8th inst, I noticed a letter concerning the recent fight at this place. The author of that statement appears to know no other regiment save the 85th Indiana infantry, and the 7th Kentucky cavalry. I will inform you that the old regiment, so well known in Kentucky as the 33d Indiana infantry, participated in the effair. If Indiana infantry, participated in the affair. If you could have seen a portion of the 33d boys cutting their way backwards and forwards through the rebels, you would no doubt say that we are entitled to some of the glory. I would be pleased to see the thing set right before the research.

FRANKLIN, KY., June 11th, 1863. This county having been less guarded has been, until lately, more exposed to rebel guerilla raids than any other on the line of the railroad. The result was that railroad-destroyers and rebel horse thieves have plied their vocation industriously, and, as to horse stealing, pretty successfully. Until some five weeks pretty successfully. Until some five weeks since, no soldiery have been stationed here for almost twelve months. Under the efficient administration of Gen. Judah, at Bowling Green, and of Capt. S. F. Johnson, who for a few weeks past has commanded a body of troops stationed here, we feel that the day of deliverance has dawned to the Union citizens of this region of country. The command of Captain Johnson are Kentuckians, a portion of them the 8th Kentucky cavalry, and a portion the 34th Kentucky infantry. It would be hard to find a body of the same number of men more Johnson is kind, but vigilant, and deals wit crushed speedily and unsparingly. Lieut. Murrell, Provost Marshal, always at his post, treats all properly, but manifests that nice discrimination so necessary to meet merous military arrests and punishments her orders, that of requiring rebels to make up the losses of Union citizens, sustained by the incursion of horse thieves, will, we think have a salutary effect.

We felt it our duty to say a word in commendation of the little band of brave officers and soldiers stationed ere, who are emphatically the right men in ppreciated and kindly treated by the citizens ere, and we hope, when the war is over and officers, soldiers, and citizens of the times and days of our mixing and commingling will be pleasant and without alloy. Captain Johnson, whose time of enlistment will soon expire, will raise a regiment for the service under the recent act of Con-gress, and we know of no person who would make a more efficient regimental commander. May the war soon cease, the rebellion be crushed, and peace restored throughout the length and breadth of the land; a peace, however, that leaves no dismemberment of the

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: BARBOURVILLE, KNOX COUNTY, KY. To the Voters of the Eighth Congressional Dis-

Messes. Editors: I wish, through your paper, to say to the voters of this District, that for the same reasons which compelled me to resign my position in the Federal service, I declined going before the convention, or being a candidate for Congress in this District, absolutely and unconditionally. I am in quite feeble health, and have been ever since I arrived at home, and would not leave my home and family to go to Congress if I were elected, in my present state of health. This I made known to the convention at London, on the 6th of May last, and directed a copy to be sent to the Journal. Hence my surprise on seeing my name in the Journal of June 3i.

If I were able for duty I would prefer the field, and would resign any other post of honor or profit to serve my country against the pres ent rebellion in arms against the Federal Union. But I am not, and my greatest sor-sow is that I am not; for I have sworn eternal enmity to this rebellion—wicked in its com-mencement as it has been in all its subsequent

Finally, I am well satisfied with Wm. H. Randall, the nominee in this district. I know him to be sound from first to last, and do not hesitate to say that he will compromise noth ing which would involve the interest of the

[Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] SWORD AND SASH PRESENTATION. PADUCAH, KY, June 10th, 1863.

On Monday, the 8th inst., Capt. L. A. Hancavelry, had a presentation made to him at the camp of the 15th Kentucky cavalry, Paducah, Ky., of a suitable and elegant sword and sash, by the members of his company and Union citizens of Mayfield and Graves county, Kentucky, as a testimonial of the merited es-timation in which Capt. Hanson is held by them as an officer and a gentleman. The sword cost forty dollars, the amount to purchase which was contributed by the members of the company; and the sash cost thirty dollars, the amount to purchase which was contributed by J. N. Beadles, A. McNutt, Charles McDonald, and D. B. Whitford. Capt. Hanson was 2d Lieutenant of his company, and recently elected captain of it by his men. He is a young officer of ability and promise, and well deserved the promotion to which he has attained, as well as the sabre and sash presented to him. He will, no doubt, if he live, render efficient service to his country, in aiding to crush out the great rebellion, and to vindicate its honor

CINCINNATI, June 15.
A special to the Gazette dated Cairo, June 13, says: The steamers Lady Pike and Wenona have arrived, both from Memphis, bringing advices and papers of the 10th and 11 but the news was anticipated by the Dunleith yesterday. No boats had arrived at Memphis from Milliken's Bend and below for two days previous to the departure of the Wenona for previous to the departure of the Wenona for Cairo. I have private advices from Johnson's Landing to the 8th. Nothing new or interesting had transpired lately.

No further particulars of the Milliken's Bend battle have been received.

Mr. Lincoln, in referring to the resolutions, says: The meeting indicates their opinion that military arrests may be constitutional in localities where rebellion actually exists, but that such arrests are unconstitutional in local ities where rebellion or insurrection does not actually exist; they insist that such arrests shall not be made outside of the lines of necessary military occupation and the scenes of insurrection; inasmuch, however, as the Constitution itself makes no such distinction I am unable to believe that there is any such only when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require them, and I insist that, in such cases, they are constitutional whenever the public safety does require them, as well in places to which they may prevent the rebellion extending as in those where it may b already prevailing; as well where they may restrain mischievous interference with the raising and supplying of armies to suppress the rebellion as where the rebellion may actually be; as well where they may restrain the enticing of men out of the army as where they could prevent mutiny in the army; equally as constitutional in all places where equally as constitutional in all places where they will conduce to the public safety as against the dangers of rebellion or invasion. Take the particular case mentioned by the meeting; It is asserted, in substance, that Mr. Vallandigham was, by a military commander, seized and tried for no other reason than words addressed to a public meeting in criticism of the course of the Administration, and in condemities of the military course of the Administration, and in condemities of the military course of the former leading to the former leading to the course of the military course of the former leading to the course of the military course o nation of the military orders of the Genera Now if there be no mistake about this, if this assertion is the truth, and the whole truth, if there was no other reason for the arrest.

TUESDAY, JUNE 16, 1863.

We hope that the aspect of military affairs will improve in the next few hours. At present we must confess that we do not feel entirely at ease, for the unmistakable indications are that Gen. Lee, the master-spirit of the rebel Confederacy in the field, is making a vigorous aggressive movement at the head of an immense army, and, that he will force his way into Maryland and Pennsylvania unless encountered and defeated in a great battle. We have little doubt that such a battle is about to take place, and, although our confidence is strong in the bravery of the army of the Potomac, our apprehensions are strengthened by the reflection that that army has been disappointing for two years the high hopes and expectations of the country, and, that it is now commanded by Gen. Hooker, who has proved himself a braggart, and, unfortunately, has failed in his desperate efforts to prove himself anything better. If Lee shall be successful in the plan he is evidently endeavoring to execute, the consequences will be deplorable almost beyond calculation; but if he shall be defeated, as he ought to be, and as he certainly would be were he met by able generalship, the rebel Confederacy may as well submit at once to its destiny-its destiny and ours—the glorious destiny of a restored Union. Lee and his generals have been busily and energetically arranging this movement ever since the last battle of Fredericksburg, and there is no doubt that they have done everything in their power to insure its success. Oh that McClellan or Buell were at the head of the Federal army! Then we could go to sleep to-night and have no other dream than a dream of victory.

regard to Vicksburg. We are inclined to believe that all is right there. The rebel papers at Richmond profess however to have reliable intelligence that Pemberton, in command of the Vicksburg army, declares his ability to hold out as long as necessary, that Jackson has cut his way into Vicksburg through the Federal lines, that Kirby Smith with ten thousand men has captured Milliken's Bend twenty miles above Vicksburg, thus cutting off Grant's supplies, and, that Johnston can now receive reinforcements and organize for an attack on Grant at his leisure. It seems absurd to suppose that rebel troops have cut their way into Vicksburg, for, if they have cut in at all, they must have cut in without taking supplies with them, and certainly there has been for some time a much greater or a truer man than he. The foul insinua- tomers. We observe in the Cincinnati Commercial a letter under the signature of "PENDLETON," which undertakes to "vindicate the Union party of the Sixth Congressional District in Kentucky." The individual who thus steps forward as the vindicator of the Union party of Kentucky is the same individual who goes about proclaiming that in the late Congress our whole Congressional delegation except Casey were unfaithful and that the Northern conservatives are no better or worse than Jeff's people. And from this point of view the individual has the effrontery to pretend to vindicate the Union party of Kentucky. A pretty vindicator of the Union party of Kentucky is he! A second Benton come to judgment! Of course his pretended vindication is manifest nonsense as well as manifest hypocrisy. It includes two or three points of fact, however, which we will notice. One of these points "PENDLETON" states as

The Journal says that several counties did not appoint regular delegations to the conven-tion. After naming two or three, and stating that several persons assumed to act for those counties without authority, he states that essentially the same thing occurred in Pendleton. Now, so far as Pendleton county is concerned, this statement is wholly untrue. The Journal's informant wholly misrepresented the fact. This county sent a regular delegation the Company's attentive agent, to secure the While doing full justice to Mr. Baxter, President of the City Council, who was recently sent to the military prison and almost immediately liberated, we would be very careful to do no injustice to Col. Mundy, the Commandant of the Post here, and Major Fitch, the Provost Marshal.

Mr. Baxter has at all times been regarded as a most ardent Union man. He has ever been especially obnoxious to the secessionists. And he has a high position personally and officially. Still there were circumstances against him that the commandant and the Provost Marshal had no right, we think, to overlook. About a week ago, it was reported to the Provost Marshal that several boxes, supposed to contain goods, were taken from Mr. Baxter's house at a very unusual hour of the nightabout one o'clock. At or near the same time, it was reported to the Provost Marshal, that, on the night (about three weeks ago) when Mr. Baxter's next neighbor, Mr. Brown, a well known Southern sympathizer, was searched, Mr. Baxter seemed much excited and went down into his cellar with a member of his family, and buried some ammunition in a de-

The Provost Marshal communicated the reported facts to Colonel Mundy, and the latter, in view of the official position and excellent reputation of Mr. Baxter, resolved to exercise the utmost care in the investigation. Colonel M. requested the Marshal to try to ascertain in the first place, and if possible without alarming or molesting Mr. B. or his family, whether the ammunition was in the cellar, buried as described. The Marshal proceeded accordingly and found a box of 5,000 gun or pistol caps buried in the designated spot, and also a box of cartridges, but the latter had the appearance of having been buried a good while and were spoiled. The cellar was accessible from without only by a door which had a made a dash into Maysville, Ky., and captured padlock on it. Colonel Mundy, still cautious, next instructed the Marshal to send for Mr. Baxter and ask an explanation in regard to saying that they did not wish to disturb prithe buried ammunition. Mr. B. simply de- vate citizens, either loyal or disloyal, but that nied all knowledge of the matter, remarking that he had not been in his cellar for two years. The Commandant, as no explanation of the suspicious circumstances was forthcomg, ordered Mr. B.'s arrest.

We presume that Mr. Baxter made a satisfactory explanation at Headquarters, or that his character was regarded as ample proof of his innocence, for Gen. Boyle promptly released him. Whilst however we regret any injustice done to our worthy fellow-citizen, certainly the Commandant and the Provost Marthal should be relieved from any imputation of having blundered or of having been incautious or hasty in their action.

It was stated in the Evening News of yesterday that Dick Moore, of this city, while the rebels were in Elizabethtown last Saturday, made himself acquainted with them and of damage had been done, only that a raid gave them improper intelligence. This is not | had taken place, and the facts above stated. true. Mr. Morrison, the military conductor on the road, can bear witness that it is not and appreciative audience assembled at Matrue. Mr. Moore started from here for Cave sonic Temple last night to witness the first City on Saturday morning, and, after the tion that the rebels were in Elizabethtown, he accompanied Mr. Morrison to that place with that officer's express consent and under his auspices (Dick thinking perhaps that he would like to look at a fight if there was to lads are sung with the most consummate skill. be such a thing), but, when they arrived, the On exhibiting the old and tattered flag borne hindmost guerilla was a mile off, and Dick by the lamented Dr. Kane throughout his couldn't have given information at that distance even with a speaking-trumpet.

Mr. Moore's arrest, on his return to Lo wille, was ordered under the impression on the part of the military authorities that he left here on Friday, and might have had some complicity with the Elizabethtown raid. When it was shown that he left on Saturday, be was discharged.

THE COMING FOURTH OF JULY .- As yet we hear of no preparations for celebrating the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Is the day to pass without some formal recognition? Have we become such lukewarm worshippers at the shrine of freedom that we have no garland to place on the altar to commemorate the birth-day of the nation, no bon-fires, or illuminations, or ringing of bells, such as old John Adams predicted, to herald its advent? We have many volunteer soldiers and convalescents in our city; we have an army of government officials; we have all the companies of citizen soldiery organized last fall; and we have thousands of Union men among us; and yet there seems to be a perfect lethargy among them all in reference to the coming Fourth. Who will take the initiative in the matter? Will Gen. Boyle order a parade, or will Col. Mundy, in command of the Post, give the necessary order? We must have a celebration to awaken the old heartthrobs, and to recall vividly to the recollection all the glories of the old Union.

CAVALBY FIGHT .- Capt. C. C. Hare, com-Ming the mounted company of the Provost Guard despatched after the rebels who visited Elizabethtown on Saturday morning, overtook and attacked them on Wilson's Creek, near Boston, on the Lebanon Branch of the Nashville Railroad, on the evening of the same day, and routed them, killing four and taking five prisoners, together with twenty- | C. Myers. five horses, a number of Enfield rifles, horse equipages, &c. He did not pause, but started in hot pursuit. Capt. Hare's noble boys are all safe, none of them hurt. We hope to be able to state at an early moment that he has about 100 officers. succeeded in killing or capturing the whole of Hines's guerillas.

RIVER NEWS.

RESOLUTIONS Adopted by the Democratic State Convention at Columbus, Ohio, on the 11th of June, 1863—Platform of the Democracy of Ohio. PREAMBLE.

The Democratic party has ever been, and yet is, a law-abiding party. It asks nothing but its rights under the Constitution and the laws. It resorts to no violation of either; it countenances no violation of either. It has a countenances no violation of either. It has a right to all the guarantees of public and private liberty, and of property, contained in our fundamental laws, and it will surrender not one of them. It has the right to discuss public measures, and will discuss them. It has the right to propose and advocate that policy which it deems best for the nation, and it will exercise that right. It has a right to have its policy passed upon by the people at peaceable and untrammeled elections, and it will maintain that right. If found in a minority, it yields obedience to all lawful rule of the majority; if it be the majority itself, it claims jority; if it be the majority itself, it claims that its lawful will be respected. Whether in a majority or minority, it obeys all laws that are in force. Those that it dislikes it seeks to overthrow, not by violence, but by a legitimate repeal. Those that it proposes, it seeks to carry, not by force, but by legal enactment.

And what it does in all these respects, it demands, and has a right to demand, that all others shall do. They owe the same obedience to the Constitution and the laws that Democrats owe. They have the same interest to maintain free government, to protect liberty, to be secure in their houses, persons, and prop-erty, that Democrats have. It is neither their interest nor ours that despotism or anarchy should prevail; and if they wish to avert both, let them see to it in time that they give no occasion for either. We will do our duty; let them remember to do theirs. In view of the circumstances that have brought us together, we hereby resolve: RESOLUTIONS.

1. That the will of the people is the foundation of all free government. That to give effect to this will, free thought, free speech, and a free press are absolutely indispensable. Without free discussion there is no certainty of sound judgment; without sound judgment there can be no wise government.

2. That it is an inherent and constitutional right of the people to discuss all measures of their government, and to approve or disap-prove, as to their best judgment seems right. That they have a right to propose and advo-cate that policy which in their judgment is best, and to argue and vote against whatever policy seems to them to violate the constitu-tion, to impair their liberties, or be detrinental to their welfare.

3. That these and all other rights, guaranteed to them by their constitutions, are their rights in time of war as well as in time of peace, and of far more value and necessity in war than in peace. For in peace liberty, se-curity, and prosperity are seldom endangered; in war they are ever in peril.

4. That we now say to all whom it may ceneern, not by way of threat, but calmly and firmly, that we will not surrender these rights nor submit to their forcible violation.

We will obey the laws ourselves, and all oth-5. That there is a manifest difference be-tween the Administration of the Government and the Government itself. The Government and the Government itself. The Government consists of the civil and political institutions created by the Constitution, and to it the psople owe allegiance. The Administration are but the agents of the people, subject to their approval or condemnation, according to the merit or demerit of their acts.

6. That in the exercise of the right to differ with the Federal Executive, we enter our solemn protest against the proclamation of the President of the United States, dated the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, by which he assumes to emancipate slaves in certain States, holding the same to be unwise, unconstitutional, 7. That we declare our determined opposition to a system of emancipation by the States, upon compensation to be made out of the Treasury of the United States, as burdensome upon the people, unjust in its very nature, and wholly without warrant of the Constitution. 8. That we declare that the power which has recently been assumed by the President of the United States, whereby, under guise of military necessity, he has proclaimed and ex-tended—or asserts the right to proclaim or extend—martial law over States where war does not exist, and has suspended the writ of ha-beas corpus, is unwarranted by the Constituto military authority, and to subvert our systo military authority, and to subvert our system of free government.

9. That we deem it proper further to declare that we, together with the truly loyal people of the State, will hail with pleasure and delight any manifestations of a desire on the part of the seceded States to return to their allegiance to the Government of the Union, and in such event we would cordially and earnestly co-operate with them in the restoration of peace and the procurement of such proper guarantees as would give security to all their interests and rights.

10. That the soldiers composing our armies merit the warmest thanks of the nation. Their country called and nobly did they respond. Living, they shall know a nation's gratitude wounded, a nation's care; and dying, they shall live in our manner of a declarated shall be raised to teach posterity to honor the patriots and heroes who offered their lives at their country's altar. Their widows and or-phans shall be adopted by the nation, to be watched over and cared for as objects truly worthy a nation's guardianship.

11. That Ohio will adhere to the Constituion and the Union as the best, it may be the last, hope of popular freedom, and for all wrongs which may have been committed or evils which may exist, will seek redress, under the Constitution and within the Union, by the peaceful but powerful agency of the suffrages

2. That we hail with pleasure and hope the manifestations of conservative sentiment among the people of the Northern States in their elections, and regard the same as the earnest of a good purpose upon their part to co-operate with all other layal citizens in giving security to the rights of every section, and maintaining the Union and the Constitution as they were ordained by the founders of the

13. That whenever it becomes practicable to obtain a Convention of all or three fourths of the States, such body should be convened for the purpose of proposing such amendments to the Federal Constitution as experience has proved to be necessary to maintain that in-strument in the spirit and meaning intended by its foundary and to provide in the control of the by its founders, and to provide against future onvulsions and wars.

14. That we will earnestly support every in and form part of the contracts for the grading and paving of any street, or any por-constitutional measure tending to preserve the union of the States. No men have a greater interest in its preservation than we have; none desire it more; there are none who will make greater sacrifices or endure more than we will to accomplish that end. We are, as we ever have been, the devoted friends of the Constitution and the Union, and we have no sympathy with the enemies of either.

15. That the arrest, imprisonment, pretended trial, and actual banishment of Clement L. Vallandigham, a citizen of the State of Ohi Vallandigham, a citizen of the State of Ohio, not belonging to the land or naval forces of the United States, nor to the militia in actual service, by alleged military authority, for no other pretended crime than that of uttering words of legitimate criticism upon the conduct of the Administration in power, and of appealing to the ballot-box for a change of rolloy—(said arrest and military time). policy—(said arrest and military trial taking place where the courts of law are open and unobstructed, and for no act done within the sphere of active military operations in carry-ing on the war)—we regard as a palpable violation of the following provisions of the Constitution of the United States: Congress shall make no law * * *

abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for dress of grievances.
"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized. 4. "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been previously ascertained by law."

And we furthermore denounce said arrest, trial, and banishment as a direct insult offered to the sovereignty of the people of Ohio, by whose organic law it is declared that "no person shall be transported out of the State for any offence committed within the same."
